NEW RUSSELLVILLE BANK HAS OPENED

STATE INSTITUTION, WITH CAPITAL STOCK OF $25,000, IS NOW DOING BUSINESS IN THE NORTH PUTNAM TOWN.

MONDAY THE FIRST DAY

Russellville has a new bank. The institution was opened Monday. It is operating under a state charter and has a capital stock of $25,000. Lewis McGaughey is president of the new institution and Charley Daniels is the cashier. Russellville now has two banks, the other one being an old established institution. Ernest Durham, formerly of Greencastle, is president of the older bank.

THE HURST FAMILY REUNION.

The Annual Hurst Family Reunion will be held this year on Wednesday, August 2, at the grove on the John McCannack farm, one mile north of Belle Union. Senator P. C. Tilden and Elder Airhart will be the speakers of the day.

WHY NOT TRY THIS HERE?

Lack of Rainfall in Paris, Ill., is Remedied When Congregation of Church Prays for Moisture.

PARIS, Ill., July 17.—Father Fallon and the congregation of St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, united in fervent prayer for rain. The supplications were followed by rain.

When the service began the sun was shining with the merest suspicion of hazy clouds in the west. Before the benediction was pronounced the skies were overcast with storm clouds and the rain was falling in torrents. The electrical display was so vivid and threatening that many of the worshippers were alarmed. It came to light later that not a woman in the large congregation had brought an umbrella.

NOTICE.

The city ordinance requires the cutting of weeds, and imposes a penalty for failure to do so.

Notice is hereby given that all persons are called upon to comply with the provision of the ordinance by cutting all weeds, high grass, etc., on their premises and vacant lots, as the ordinance will be forced. By order of the mayor.

MAY GO TO JEFFERSONVILLE.

Plan to Relieve Congestion at Plainfield's Boys' School.

If plans suggested by Governor Thomas R. Marshall are carried out, as it is understood they will be, the population of the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville will be increased sixty in a single day by the transfer of that number of inmates of the Indiana boys' school at Plainfield. That institution is so badly overcrowded that it has been found imperative that something be done. Several days ago Guy C. Hanna, superintendent of the Indiana boys' school, appealed to Gov. Marshall for relief, and he visited the institution Thursday.

Gov. Marshall found 630 inmates in the institution, when the normal population should only be 400. He also found that every square inch of the sleeping apartments was being used and many extra beds had been crowded into the dormitories.

A list was furnished Governor Marshall showing that sixty of the inmates now passed the age of 17 years which is the limit of sending boys to the school had been returned for violating their paroles, and some of the culprits are now nearly 21 years old. In many instances the incorrigibles have been sent back to Plainfield as many as three times. Gov. Marshall discussed the feasibility of transferring the incorrigibles to the reformatory, and it is thought this step will be taken.

NEW OWNER FOR THE GAS PLANT

W. A. MARTIN, OF LAPORTE, IND., HERE TUESDAY AFTERNOON AND CLOSING DEAL BY WHICH HE TAKES POSSESSION OF LOCAL BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.

TO RETAIN C. V. NEWMAN

The property of the Greencastle Gas & Electric Company, which consists of the local gas plant and franchise to furnish illuminating and fuel gas to Greencastle consumers, was sold this afternoon to W. A. Martin, of LaPorte, Indiana, a practical gas man and owner of several other gas plants in the state. With Mr. Martin are associated several other LaPorte financiers.

The purchase price was not made public. The plant was owned by St. Louis capitalists, and J. W. Baeppler, of that city, Secretary and Treasurer of the company, was here to assist C. V. Newman, the local manager, in closing the deal. Mr. Martin has been negotiating for the purchase of the plant for several weeks and it took only a short time this afternoon to wind up the details of the deal.

Mr. Martin takes over the plant at once and under the terms of the sale takes over all of the July business of the company. C. V. Newman, the popular manager of the company, will be retained by the new management.

Elmer Gibson, who lives on south Bloomington street owns a pet goat, is now looking for several dogs that attacked the animal about 1 o'clock Monday night. Squire Ashton, who lives next door to Mr. Gibson was awakened Monday night by a loud racket and the sound of scuffling. He ran out of his home and saw the goat trying its best to ward off the attacks of the dogs. Squire Ashton drove the dogs away and called Mr. Gibson. An examination showed that the canines had torn one of the goat's ears almost off and had injured it about the body. Today the goat is unable to either drink or eat. The animal is highly prized by Mr. Gibson. It is well trained and will do a number of clever tricks.

Robert Fordice, of Russellville, was a Greencastle visitor Monday.

ANNUAL RE-UNION AT BLOOMINGTON

MEMBERS OF THE 159TH INDIANA VOLUNTEERS WILL CELEBRATE ON LABOR DAY, SEPTEMBER 4—ONE COMPANY WAS ORGANIZED HERE.

MANY WILL ATTEND

On Labor Day, September 4, at Bloomington, the Fourth Annual Reunion of the 159th Regiment of the Indiana Volunteers will be held. Company I of the regiment was made up in Greencastle and the members were almost all from either this city or Putnam county. The regiment was organized shortly before the out-break of the Spanish-American war and was in service for about nine months. However, the boys were in no battles and did not leave the United States. A large number from here probably will attend the reunion. The following is a list of the officers and men of the company organized here:

Captain, Wilbur F. Starr.
First Lieutenant, Charles F. Donnohue.

First Sergeant, Benton Curtis.
Quartermaster, Sergeant, James O. Rhea.
Sergeants, Earl Fiske, Samuel K. Stewart, Ralph Cooper, Thomas M. Lawson, James Moss, Edgar E. Evans.

Musicians, Fred Starr, T. Smith. Artificer, Fred H. Smythe. Wagoner, William T. Roberts. Privates, Laurence Allen, Louis Alkire, John A. Bard, Edwin Black, Francis Blakely, William S. Blue, Millard M. Bowen, Frank Bridges, Edward Brockway, Charles Conklin, Harry Conklin, George P. Corn, Oscar Cosner, John Cureton, Daniel Donnohue, Albert Dunn, Irwin Evans, Hancell Farmer, Roy Fowler, Scott Gale, Orestes Garrett, William Gifford, Oscar Gill, Herschel S. Hall, Allen Harleman, Harry Hawkins, Richard Hazelett, Lilburn Hepler, George Hibbitt, James Hill, Edward Hillis, Henry O. Irwin, John Irwin, William A. Ivy, Edward E. Jenkins, Everett Jones, Edward Lane, Philip Lane, Ralph Lumsden, Ernest Middleton, James McConkey, Paul McFadden, Omer L. Nelson, Lea Paxton, Alvin Payne, Joseph Pearson, Albert G. Preston, Homer E. Reeves, Shirley Reeves, William Reed, Milford M. Reynolds, Joel H. Richardson, Luther Sackett, Lee T. Schaffer, Clay Sellers, William Shoemaker, Fred W. Smith, Morton Springer, William R. Steele, Paul Tucker, William Tucker, Thomas Tittle, Frank Wilson, Arthur J. Yeomans.

WILD BLACKBERRIES

Fire Chief Eppert, who Sunday picked several gallons of black berries at Deer Creek, southeast of Reelsville, reports that the wild berries are plentiful there, although many are stunted by the drought. He says that persons should get busy now to can the berries as they are beginning to drop off.—Brazil News.

A seining party went out north of town on Walnut Creek this afternoon to drag a few more of the unlucky suckers and sickle back from that stream.

Ed Hill, formerly of this city, but now of Muncie, was a Greencastle visitor today.

VACANT HOUSES FEW. Practically Every Rental House in Greencastle is Now Rented and Demand is Growing.

The fact that Greencastle is in pretty good condition at present is shown by the fact that almost every rentable house which is at all desirable is now rented and there is still a demand for better houses than the ordinary rentable house. Several old homes have been remodeled this summer and made modern and ready renters have been found showing that there is a call for houses in this city.

ELKS ABOLISH THE GOAT. Hereafter Candidates for Order Will Not Have to Suffer Hazing.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 17.—No more will the intending Elk be compelled to "ride the goat," climb a greased pole, walk on spikes or bathe in an arctic lake. The last important action of the grand lodge of Elks was to abolish all hazing in the rites of the order.

MANY AGAINST THE SEINING

FISHERMAN OF SEVERAL COUNTIES IN STATE MAKE STRENUOUS COMPLAINTS AGAINST GRANTING OF SEINE PERMITS

counties in Indiana the fishermen seem to be in favor of seining the streams for carp, sickle back and suckers, fishermen in other counties are emphatically against it. There can be no doubt but what the seining of streams in Putnam county is doing good and the benefit will be seen within the next few years. The streams are being cleared of the undesirable fish and it is making room for the game varieties.

A rod and reel club was organized in Connersville a few days ago and in five hours following the proposal of a deputy game and fish commissioner to grant seining permits in Fayette county. The club made strenuous "kicks" against the granting of the permits and Commissioner Miles then told the members that no permits would be issued. The members of the club are now trying to get the fishermen of Franklin county to work in co-operation with them in keeping the issuing of permits in that entire part of the state.

The following is taken from the Indianapolis News in regard to the issuing of permits along the Wabash, Tippecanoe and Wild Cat Rivers:

George W. Miles, state fish and game commissioner, has declared that if the residents of the country along the Wabash river below Peru, along Tippecanoe river and Wild Cat creek have any fear that permits will be issued for the use of seines in these streams will be issued by his department they may dismiss them.

"The Tippecanoe river and Wild Cat creek are among best bass fishing streams in the state," said Mr. Miles. "Bass abound there, and there are no carp. Inasmuch as the permits are issued only in communities where the carp are destroying the young bass, there is no occasion to issue them for seining these two streams. There is no need of seining in the Wabash below Peru and no permits for that purpose will be issued."

ANOTHER BAND CONCERT SOON

ARRANGEMENTS FOR FREE ATTRACTION TO BE HELD HERE SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 29, ARE BEING MADE.

A FALL CARNIVAL, MAYBE

Another one of those pleasing band concerts is to be given in Greencastle in the near future. The Nine O'Clock Tea Club, the club investigating the plan of having free attractions here, and that already has carried out two attractions to perfection, is the organization planning the next band concert. It was hoped to have the concert next Saturday night but the Harmony band, the same band that played here on July Fourth, has a previous engagement for next Saturday night and it is impossible to secure it. However, it is hoped that it will be possible to have the attraction on Saturday evening, July 29.

A business meeting of the Nine O'Clock Tea Club is to be held tomorrow night and it may be that more definite information about the concert and possibly other events, will then be made possible. A grand fall carnival and horse show to be held here after the completion of the square improvements is also being talked of. At present the affair is talk only, but plans probably will be made within a short time for the events. The Fourth of July celebration held here was such a success and drew such a large crowd that the merchants and town people feel that they were more than justified in having everything free and believe that other attractions in the future will be profitable.

BOTH SIDES SWEAR OUT AFFIDAVITS.

The quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cox and John Swartz, who live on the latter's farm, just south of Cloverdale, promises to cause no little amount of "lawing." Late Monday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Cox were in Greencastle and swore out a complaint against Swartz on the charge of assault and battery. Constable Crawley went to Cloverdale this morning to arrest Swartz, but after he got there the officer found that Swartz had fled complaints against both Mr. and Mrs. Cox, also alleging assault and battery. The last mentioned affidavits were filed before Squire Eekles, of Cloverdale. The case was set for hearing this morning but was delayed until Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The warrants filed at Cloverdale necessitated the delaying of the arraignment of Swartz on the charge filed against him here. However, Swartz's case is set for hearing before Squire Frank tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Constable Crawley put him under $100 bond to appear here tomorrow morning. Both sides have retained attorneys. The case is the one mentioned in Monday's Herald of the landlord (Swartz) and the renters (Mr. and Mrs. Cox) getting into an argument as to whether some stock had knocked the lid off of a barrel or not. Both Mrs. Cox and Swartz bear marks of the conflict, which followed.

The wedding of Miss Edith A. Greiner, daughter of Mrs. George Landes and Waldo Bartlett, of Kewanee, Ill., will occur at the home of the bride's mother, Wednesday evening July 26. Mr. Bartlett formerly was a Linotype operator of this city. The young couple will make their home in Kewanee.

Professor KleinSmid delivered the last of a series of ten addresses before the Men's Religious Movement League at the Y. M. C. A. building in Indianapolis Monday evening. Professor KleinSmid's subject was, "The Religious Impulse during Adolescence."

THE YAGER REUNION.

On Sunday morning, July 16th, 1911, the different families of the Yagers met at Brookside Park, Indianapolis, to hold their annual reunion. The day proved to be delightfully cool, which added much to the enjoyment of the merry crowd.

At noon the long table in the pavilion was filled with the finest of eatables, John T. Yager presiding at the head to say grace. Among those who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Steward and son, of New Maysville; Miss Edmon and Miss Hazel Steward, of Greencastle; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shake and daughter of Cloverdale; and Mrs. Adah Shake, of Eminence.

GIRL IS STILL IMPROVING.

Miss Nadine Van Hise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benton Van Hise, who was struck by an interurban, car, a week ago last Sunday, while picnicking at Hutchison, still continues to improve.—Brazil News.

SWEET APPLE TREES GONE.

Delicious Sweet Apples Are Not Seen in as Plentiful Numbers as Used to Be.

The sweet apple tree, which formerly occupied a prominent place on the country boy's summer map has virtually disappeared from the orchards of Indiana, says B. W. Douglas, state entomologist. Its place has been taken by the apple with a decided acidity, which has good cooking qualities and a steady market.

"The apple growers like persons pursuing other industrial callings, are not wasting ground and labor on apple trees which provide only eating apples and a loading place for boys of the neighborhood," says Mr. Douglas. "The sweet apple has no cooking quality, and very little keeping quality. I know of one grower who raises sweet apple on one tree, to which he gives particular care. He sold thirty-two bushels from the tree last year at $2 a bushel, having found a market in Chicago. The market is extremely limited, however, and few grocers can afford to give time and space to the sweet apple tree."

The early orchards of the state had a liberal sprinkling of sweet apples. The fruit usually came on early, and the best trees in a neighborhood were marked. The farmers had no use for the apple for cooking, cider, marketing or storing, and the trees were, as a rule, turned over to the free use of the whole neighborhood as long as the crop lasted. Usually there was always to be found a path leading from every neighborhood swimming hole straight to a sweet apple tree, and the afternoon for the average boy was not complete without several pocketfuls of the luscious fruit and a plunge into the swimming hole.

LAND SALE OFF; ASKS BIG DAMAGE

MONTGOMERY COUNTY PEOPLE ASK THAT THEY BE GIVEN $4,500 BY COURT BECAUSE MARGARET A. CARTER REFUSED TO CARRY OUT CONTRACT.

CASE VENUED TO PUTNAM

Alleging that they are damaged to the extent of $4,500 because Margaret A. Carter refused to carry out her contract with them, William S. Parker and Lula M. Parker have filed a suit for damages. All of the parties live in Montgomery county and the case was brought to Putnam county on a change of venue. William Parker and Lula Parker allege in their complaint that Margaret Carter, on December 28, 1910, made a contract in writing in which she agreed to transfer to them on March 10, 1911, two farms containing in all 170.22 acres. The consideration was to be $21,590.

They further allege that the farms are worth at least $25,000 and that the refusal of Margaret A. Carter to transfer the land to them caused them a loss of several thousand dollars. They further allege that they had prepared to take the land over and had spent several hundred dollars to buy seeds, implements and other things needed to run the farm. When the day set for the transfer came, the owner of the land refused to carry out the contract by deeding the land to Mr. and Mrs. Parker. They total their losses at $4,500 and ask that amount of damages. Hays & Murphy have been retained as attorneys for William Parker and Lula Parker.

FROST TO COME.

Presence of Katyids Indicates Frost in Six Weeks.

When will the first frost strike Greencastle? About the middle of August, if the coming of katyids is any sign. This year the katyids began singing about the first of July and their advent is supposed to indicate frost in six weeks. If that is the case the first frost will arrive about the middle of August. Local weatherwise people, however, believe that the katyids are here prematurely this year and that the first frost will not come for some time after the expiration of the six weeks.

THE UNLOADED GUN
CAUSES MUCH SORROW

Firearms Should Be Hidden from View—Their Lure Is Dangerous.

FLOURISHING an old revolver as she danced about, singing a popular air, a young New York girl a few days ago shot and seriously wounded a girl companion, who was in the room with her. The injured girl is fast recovering, but the other still bears and sees the shot that she unwittingly sent into the shoulder of her friend and lies in a pitiable state murmuring over and over the old refrain, "I didn't know it was loaded."

Only a few days before that girl and her brother had a friendly tussle over an "unloaded" weapon and the boy was shot fatally, while within the past few days four others have been victims of shooting accidents.

Of course there is always the cry that nobody knew the revolver was loaded; always the explanation that it had been "put down just for a little while" before it was stored away out of sight, but all the pleas, all the extenuating circumstances cannot lift the weight of horror from the shoulders of those whose careless hands pulled the trigger, or the sorrow from the relatives and friends of those injured or killed by the flying bullets.

Nor can it make it any less hard to appear in a crowded courtroom on the charge of having—accidentally or otherwise—shot some one near and dear to you.

Yet the remedy for all this is not difficult, for it is simply the rule to keep firearms locked carefully away from careless hands.

There is a lure about a gun or a revolver that tempts every one to handle the shining thing. The fact that death lurks within that round, smooth barrel lends it a mystery and a fascination.

It tempts the man or woman who has grown despondent or worried into seeking the solace of suicide. It tempts the man or girl who is angry or jealous, or hysterical, to shooting quick to satisfy that just for "hurting" that springs uppermost in the human heart during a quarrel and it tempts the young people to "try it," to peep into the barrel to see "how hard the trigger works," and only too often leads to the accidental killing of those whose life is bright and who seemingly have years of happiness ahead of them.

Don't ever believe that a gun is unloaded, for it usually isn't, and, what is more, don't have any kind around where you or your family can see it. Give a thought to the sad homes in which such weapons have played so tragic a part during the past few weeks, and be sure that in your own home "father's revolver" is put away where none but he can find it.

Happiest Girl in Lincoln.

A Lincoln, Neb., girl writes, "I had been ailing for some time with chronic constipation and stomach trouble. I began taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and in three days I was able to be up and get better right along I am the proudest girl in Lincoln to find a good medicine." For sale by all dealers.

Crime of Opium Victims.

The extent to which the narcotic habit prevails in the French navy was illustrated by the proceedings of a court-martial at Brest. The defendants were half a dozen seamen of ordinary rating, who were charged with a considerable number of robberies. All the men were victims of the opium or the ether habit, or both combined, and were in the habit of bemuddling themselves daily with these drugs and the robberies had been committed to gratify their passion. Severe sentences were passed.

Longevity of Chameleons.

Chameleons can be kept alive for years by making a frame to fit over a plant in a flowerpot and covering it with mosquito netting, which must be long enough to tie with a string about the pot. Keep the pot in the sunniest window and water the plant every day through the netting. You will be surprised to see how eagerly the little creatures will drink the running water after they get over their fear. Set a wire flytrap for flies, which you can liberate under the netting. The chameleons will not be backward about helping themselves.

Right in your busiest season when you have the least time to spare you are most likely to take diarrhoea and lose several days' time, unless you have Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand and take a dose on the first appearance of the disease. For sale by all dealers.

LIGHTNING DAMAGE
MAY BE PREVENTED

Protection from lightning is a subject that recurs with the coming of each summer. In the violence of an atmospheric electric disturbance, accompanied by awe-inspiring flashes of lightning there are but few who have not desired the protection of a lightning proof shelter.

The probability of an individual building being struck by lightning is really very slight but there is always a possibility of such an occurrence and also that the stroke might be attended with considerable violence; more than that the building might take fire.

That lightning rods are a real protection to buildings from lightning has been proven so many times that their value is no longer questioned, but the possibility of obtaining experimental data is so limited that definite rules for the establishment of the rods and conductors have never been formulated. For many years, lightning rods were looked upon with suspicion in the country, because their sale for a considerable period was used as a means to defraud the unwary.

The formation of lightning is very imperfectly understood but experiment with its vagaries and a knowledge of the laws of high-tension electric currents has established a fairly good understanding of the methods of constructing lightning conductors for all ordinary discharges. It is very well known that lightning is the discharge of a large amount of electricity in a very short space of time and that whatever affords it a passage to the earth is apt to be badly damaged, unless the vehicle happens to be a good conductor of electricity and of sufficient size to transmit the amount of electric energy the flash contains; in which case it passes away doing no damage at all.

As a storm develops the electrically charged clouds pass over the earth and when the electrical intensity becomes great enough to break down the resistance of the intervening air, the resulting charge will pass into the earth by the most convenient path. This is commonly some high object of the landscape, a building, a pole, a tree or any other object that extends up from the earth. If the object is a conductor of electricity and connected with the earth, the lightning will pass into the ground without the least damage being done but if it is not a good conductor, the havoc that is wrought in an instant is sometimes appalling.

Building with metallic roofs that are properly connected with the earth are far better protectors from lightning than could be given by rods. Building that are completely covered with sheet metal and well connected with the earth are practically lightning proof. Covered in this manner, buildings have been known to be repeatedly struck by lightning without the least damage. The sheet-iron granary, so common in the west, when well connected with the earth may be considered lightning proof. The ground connections mentioned above may be made of metallic rods that extend well into the earth and securely fastened to the metallic covering of the buildings.

In considering the form of lightning conductors it is well to keep in mind the fact that a metal covered building well connected with the earth is practically a lightning proof and that one with a metallic roof, well grounded is excellently well protected if not perfectly safe. If then, the roof of a building possesses a metallic ridge, eave-troughs and downspouts, these will afford very good protection if they are all connected and well grounded. A roof covered with a metallic screen, as a chicken screen, makes an excellent protector when properly grounded.

It must be remembered that the ground connection is a positive necessity and too much care cannot be exercised in its construction. The earth is the great reservoir of electrical energy and it is always at zero potential. If a discharge of lightning can be directed into the moist earth by a conductor, its energy is soon dissipated but the ground connection must be of considerable area and extend well into the moist earth. A piece of galvanized iron pipe driven into the ground seven or eight feet makes a good "ground." Large buildings must have two or more such "grounds." The connecting wires must be securely fastened to the ground connections.

In the matter of conducting wires, the U. S. Weather Bureau recommends a number three, galvanized iron wire as amply sufficient in size for ordinary lightning protection. If metallic downspouts are used as conductors the connections should be made, with the "grounds," with riveted joints. Copper conductors give no better protection than iron if the iron is kept covered to prevent it from rusting.

Wire fences are often the cause of damage by lightning because of the method of construction. If the fence wires are grounded the danger from this cause will disappear. Ground wires may be made of ordinary fence wire and should be connected with each of the wires of the fence and extend into the ground three feet. Such "grounds" should be made for each 100 feet of fence.

For early fruit of tomatoes, stake, tie and trim the vines. In this way they receive the full benefit of the early season's sun and new tomatoes will ripen several weeks earlier, although the plants will not bear so much nor live so long.

Why is it that when a man begins studying French the first thing he wants to learn to say is, "What'll you have?"

Never drive a horse with so loose a rein that you can not instantly command the situation if necessary.

Where Good
Roads Boom

GOOD road advocates turn their eyes upon the Pacific coast states, where their hobby is reaching a development nowhere else approximated in the United States. The dream of the Pacific coast is for a macadamized, asphalt surfaced highway from Alaska south to the Panama canal. The realization of the project so far is the actual voting by the state of California of a bond issue of $18,000,000 and by the public interest aroused in Oregon, Washington, and British Columbia, which promises early legislation for the continuation of the California highway.

The California project is for a continuous north and south highway of magnificent construction. The work will be started this summer and under the appropriation between 1,500 and 2,000 miles of road will be constructed. It is the intention to connect all important cities in the state.

California counties are in advance of the state in this work. Los Angeles county leads and the movement, in fact, started here with an issue July, 1908, of $3,500,000 bonds for county roads. The county has completed 112 miles of what is said to be the finest macadam pavement in the world. Twenty-eight miles of this, including the Newhall tunnel, has been built under engineering difficulties. The total mileage planned is 186.

The roads are being graded thirty to forty feet and paved as a rule sixteen feet wide, this being considerably increased at the turns. The base of the road construction is a layer of rock from five to eight inches in thickness, which is built up as a water bound macadam road and treated with liquid asphalt sprayed on and into the surface. The supply of rock comes in part from the county quarry at Pacoima, with a capacity of 1,000 tons daily.

County roads so far built come only to the city boundaries. The cities, however, have in most cases entered into the county spirit and have extended their payment to the boundary to connect with the county road. Private enterprises have also added many fine roads. Notable among these is twenty-six miles of double boulevard built in the San Fernando valley by the Lankershim and Van Nuys ranches. This is an asphalt road on both sides of an electric railway and is up to the standard of the best county roads.

The west claims to lead the whole country in the good roads movement.

Our Grocery Clerk
Says, What a Boy!

The errand boy's been at it again. You could drop that boy from the Washington monument and he'd never hurt himself, providing he had presence of mind enough to land on his head.

The kid ran into the place this morning waving a green back. "Mrs. Tite wants $5 worth of persimmons," he cries at me.

"Mussy," I says, "I don't believe we've got that many. I wonder what the stingy old dame is going to do—give a persimmon party?"

"Dunno," says bonehead, "but she wants 'em."

Well, I certainly did scrape around some for those persimmons. Finally I chased the kid around the corner to get a dollar's worth to complete the order. They pretty near filled his pushcart.

In about 15 minutes Mrs. Tite comes steaming in with the kid by the ear.

"I gave him $5 to give to Pa Simmons and look what he brings me!" she yells. "I won't stand for it! Bow! wow-wow!"

Pa Simmons is the man of all work that hangs around the place when he's not working, and Mrs. Tite owed him a favor. Pa Simmons, persimmons! Oh, say!

Petition to Improve
Highway

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Auditor of Putnam County, Indiana, that there has been filed in his office a petition by D. H. Barker, et al., for the improving of a certain public highway in Jackson Township, said county and that said petition is set for hearing before the Board of County Commissioners of said county, on Monday, the 7th day of August, 1911, the same being the first day of the August Term, 1911, of said board.

Which said petition is in the following words and figures, to-wit:

State of Indiana, Putnam County, SS:

Before the Board of Commissioners of Putnam County, Indiana:

We, the undersigned, freeholders and voters of Jackson Township, in Putnam County, Indiana, hereby petition your Honorable Board to improve by grading, draining, bridging and macadamizing or graveling the following described highway in said township, and commonly known as and called the "Barker Road, to-wit:—"

Beginning in said highway on the Township line separating Franklin and Jackson townships in said County, at the Southwest corner of Section Nineteen (19), in Township Sixteen (16), North of Range Three (3) West, Putnam County, Indiana; thence East on, in and with said highway on the line separating Sections Nineteen (19) and Thirty (30), in said Township and Range to the Southeast corner of said Section Nineteen (19); thence North on, in and with said highway on the section line separating Sections Nineteen (19) and Twenty (20), in said Township to the Northwest corner of the Southwest quarter of Section Twenty (20); thence East on, in and with said highway on the line that separates the North half from the South half of said Section Twenty (20), for a distance of about three-fourths of one mile; thence Northeastly on, in and with said highway and with the meanderings thereof to the Northeast corner of said Section Twenty (20) at a point where said highway intersects the Roachdale and New Maysville Free Gravel Road, the distance from the beginning to the terminus of said highway being two and one-half miles.

Said petitioners recommend that said highway be improved by graveling the same with good gravel; that the same be 33 feet in width, and that said highway be improved without holding an election therefor.

Respectfully submitted,

NOTICE

Petition to Improve
Highway

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Auditor of Putnam County, Indiana, that there has been filed in his office a petition by Charles B. McFerrin, et al., for the improvement of a certain public highway in Greencastle township said county and that said petition is set for hearing before the Board of County Commissioners of said county, on Monday, the 7th day of August, 1911, the same being the first day of the August Term, 1911, of said board.

Which said petition is in the following words and figures, to-wit:

State of Indiana, County of Putnam, SS:

Board of Commissioners' Court Putnam County, Indiana.

To the Honorable Board of Commissioners of Putnam County, Indiana:

We, the undersigned freeholders and voters of Greencastle Township, Putnam County, Indiana, hereby petition your Honorable Board and ask that the following described highway situated in said township, Putnam County, Indiana, to-wit: Beginning in the center of Berry Street extension at a point five hundred and thirty-eight (538) feet west of a point four hundred and sixty (460) feet North of the Southeast corner of the West half (1-2) of the Southwest quarter (1-4) of Section twenty-one (21) Township Fourteen (14) North Range four (4) West, thence North two hundred and thirty-seven and two-tenths (237 2-10ths) feet, thence East five hundred and eighteen (518) feet to the West line of Indiana street in the City of Greencastle, Putnam County, Indiana, (said above named Berry Street being in the City of Greencastle, Indiana,) be improved by grading, draining, bridging and macadamizing the same. Said highway is less than three miles in length and connects at each end with an improved Street and extensions thereof. Said petitioners recommend that said highway be improved by paving with crushed stone and that it be improved 32 feet in width, and that it be ordered improved without holding an election therefor.

ESCAPED WITH HIS LIFE.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced a awful death," writes H. B. Martin Port Harrelston, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything, I could hear of, for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at the Owl Drug store.

Mushroom Recipes

The warm spring rains bring forth the appetizing and healthful mushrooms and also bring forth its unhealthful cousin, the toadstool. In gathering mushrooms I take no chances. If a specimen looks stained, spotted, or old or doubtful in any way, I reject it, even if it meets the mushroom's requirements. The only ones I gather (and I have survived a half century of mushroom banquets) are those having flat or slightly conical caps with thin edges, and white or putty colored on top and a delicate chocolate color underneath—this last condition is imperative. Equally toothsome and safer for it has no unpleasant relatives in the moril. It grows only in oak openings, is dome shaped, full of small holes like a sponge, and of a pale yellow or brownish color. Both mushrooms and morils should be soaked in slightly salted water an hour or two to draw out insects, then drained, wiped dry and sauted in butter and served either plain or with a cream sauce, they are a "dish fit to set before a king." Here are some recipes for those who wish more elaborate ways of serving them.

Beefsteak and Mushrooms—Select a steak at least two and one-half inches in thickness. Broil over a clear fire until rare, then season plentifully with creamed butter, salt, a little lemon juice, and a pinch of mace. Place on a hot platter or in a heated casserole and arrange over the top a layer of large mushrooms that have been peeled and steeped in butter for ten minutes. Season with salt and lemon juice, then place in under the broiling flame five minutes.

If desired a second and even a third layer of buttered and seasoned mushrooms may be added, each layer receiving its broiling in turn. In this way the essence of the mushrooms becomes concentrated in the steak. Serve with baked Irish potatoes or grilled sweet potatoes.

Mushroom Sauce—made from Stems—The stems cut from mushrooms can be utilized in a delicious sauce for beefsteak. For this they may be simply fried in butter or sprinkled with salt, broiled, then broken in pieces and stirred in a cupful of hot cream and seasoned with salt and pepper.

Macaroni and Mushrooms—Four ounces macaroni, four large mushrooms, two large tomatoes, three tablespoon butter one-half cup thin brown sauce, seasoning of salt, pepper, paprika. Boil the macaroni in plenty of salted water twenty minutes, drain and cut in small pieces, then toss it in one tablespoon of the butter over the fire adding the seasoning of salt, etc. Slice the tomatoes thickly and cook until heated through in the rest of the butter, take them out and keep hot and saute the mushrooms in the same butter until soft; season both vegetables lightly. Arrange macaroni in a straight line down the center of a hot dish. On the top lay alternately a mushroom and a tomato slice and strain the sauce around.

Scalloped Mushrooms—Cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with a layer of dry bread crumbs, sprinkle over with pepper and salt and stick bits of butter all over the crumbs, then moisten with cream. Place a layer of mushrooms alternately with the bread until the dish is full. Cover with bits of butter, pour over a pint of cream, cover to keep the flavor and bake one hour, remove top and let brown.

Creamed Mushrooms—To cook mushrooms easily and deliciously stem them and cut in thick slices. For every pound allow two table spoons of butter. When the butter bubbles in a sauce pan cover the fire turn the mushrooms in, season with salt and pepper, cover and simmer for five minutes.

Meantime put smooth a scant level tablespoon of flour in a little cold milk, add half a cupful of cream, and turn into the pan with the mushrooms. Serve as soon as the cream is heated.

Note—As a further test of safety always use a silver knife in preparing mushrooms, as they will not discolor silver, but other fungi will.

Chocolate Eclairs

Shape cream puff mixtures on buttered sheets on oblong pieces about four inches long and one and one-half inches wide, placed about four inches apart. As soon as they are done ice with chocolate icing. When icing is cold cut the eclairs on the side and fill either with whipped cream, a custard, or preserved fruits. Chocolate icing: Two tablespoonfuls melted chocolate, five tablespoonfuls powdered sugar, three tablespoonfuls boiling water; cook over fire until smooth and glossy; dip the tops of eclairs in this as they come from the oven. Cream filling: One and one-half cups scalded milk, two-thirds cup sugar, one fourth cup flour, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat the sugar, flour, eggs and salt together and stir into the scalded milk; cook fifteen minutes, stirring often. When cold flavor with vanilla. Cut a small slit in the side of the eclair and fill with a pastry tube.

Cream Puffs

One cup hot water, one half cup butter; boil together and while boiling stir in one cup of flour dry. Take from the oven and stir to a thin paste, and after this stir in three eggs, unbeaten. Stir five minutes. Drop in tablespoonfuls on buttered tin and bake in a quick oven 25 minutes opening the oven door no oftener than is necessary and being careful that they do not touch each other in pan. This amount makes twelve puffs. Cut on the side with sharp knife and fill with whipped cream.

Baking Powder Biscuits

The old method of making baking powder biscuits was the minute they were cut and in the pan to pop them in the oven. Try letting them rise from fifteen to twenty minutes before baking, and notice the difference in size, lightness and taste.

SUMMER FLIRTATIONS DANGEROUS AFFAIRS

Dull Days for Girl Who Must Take Her Vacation Among Strangers

CAN a girl make friends while she is on her vacation or is she bound while away to follow the same conventions that she does while at home, and that is, to avoid advances from either men or women unless she knows them well?

So runs a letter which I received this morning, telling of a girl who is to have a fortnight's vacation soon and who must perform itself alone at some resort. "I can't afford to take any one with me," she writes frankly, "and my mother will not leave town on account of father. I need the rest and change, but do not know just what to do as I am afraid I will be awfully lonely."

The question raised by the letter is one that comes up over and over, whenever the summer months bring about the sunny vacation days and the long, warm moonlit nights. It is hard to go away and sit demurely alone when every one else is dancing or going sailing or walking in the moonlight, but harder still to face the sorrow and wounded self-respect that so often follow a summer flirtation.

They are transient, too, at the best, and it must be admitted that there is no way of knowing who or what are the people you make friends with at such a time, and the wise girl will endeavor to go to some place where she knows at least one or two people. If this is not possible and she is determined upon her trip, then she must take her courage in both hands and prepare to have a more or less lonely time, unless she makes friends with some older woman at the hotel where she is staying who may introduce her to others.

For "making the acquaintance" of men in vacation days leads to more tragedies than happy memories. There is a lure about the summer time that tempts often to more intimacy than would occur on a fortnight at any other time, and heartbreak, disillusionment and regret are more often than not the excess baggage which the girl carries back with her to the city instead of renewed ambition and the zest for work.

So to the writer of the letter and to all other girls I would most assuredly advise against the vacation spent alone. Either try to take it with some girl whom you wait (till a member of the family may go, or else make only short excursions from time to time with friends.

Two weeks of loneliness is scarcely to be borne by the average girl who likes good times, and two weeks of casually making friends with "any one" cannot but leave a stain upon the memory of the summer when the girl faces the old conventions and the old life back at home.

Our Grocery Clerk Says Pigs Is Pigs

"Just married" is written all over her face, but she's such a neat, plump, dimply sort of a body that it's a pleasure to wait on her, even if she don't know what she wants half the time.

Yesterday she breezed in and ordered half a dozen pickled pig's feet, wanting to know whether it was the pigs of the feet that were pickled and a lot of other fool things while I was wrapping them up. "Charge 'em," she chirps and skips out, and I forgot all about her until she blew in again this morning.

"Oh, Mr. Slug," she says, my husband thought those pig's feet were just lovely."

"Lovely pig's feet! Oh, splawh!" "Yes," she goes on, "and I want six more off the same pig."

It is to grunt!

HE WASN'T.

"One cannot be too careful in his remarks on some occasions," said a young clerkman, in speaking of a tour of inspection which he, in company with certain older divines, made of a certain penal institution.

"The leader of our little expedition, a truly good man, was so impressed by what he learned from the story of one young man, imprisoned for burglary, that he felt that he should offer him some encouragement, of what kind he hardly knew. So, after many hints and haws, he delivered himself of the following:

"Ah, my friend, we must not lose sight of the fact that we are here today and gone tomorrow."

"You may be, sir," rejoined the burglar, "but I ain't."

NEW WHAT WAS COMING

Both boys had been rude to their mother. She put them to bed earlier than usual, and then complained to their father about them. So he started up the stairway, and they heard him coming.

"Here comes papa," said Maurice. "I'm going to make believe I'm asleep."

"I'm not," said Harry, "I'm going to get up and put something on."

MANY OBJECTIONS.

Father—It's a curious thing that whenever I want you to marry a man you object, and whenever I do not want you to marry one you insist on it.

Daughter—Yes, and whenever we are agreed the man objects.

Making Life on Farm Easier

"MACHINES that almost think" is a term that may with reason be applied to many forms of improved farm machinery wherein human control has truly been reduced to a minimum. The machines perform their various functions automatically, almost as if they had minds of their own. About all the operator has to do is to feed and to steer them.

For instance, the "broadcast seed" which is employed for planting grass and grain. This is attached to an ordinary wagon. The only human co-operation it requires is the keeping of its hopper full. It will also distribute all manner of dr, commercial fertilizers, putting them precisely where they will be of the utmost benefit.

For such grains as must be planted systematically in rows or in hills there is provided a mechanical grain drill. Among its numerous attachments may be mentioned a land measurer, something like a cyclometer, which records the acreage planted. To cover the seed that it has planted it has a system of hoes that are adjusted to work straight or "zig-zag." A variant of this apparatus weeds as well as sows.

Another remarkable farm machine that comes within the category of "thinking" apparatus is the bear planter. It drills the hole in the ground, plants the beans, covers them, and marks the position of the next row at one operation. It will even alternate corn with beans, turn and turn about, or plant corn in place of beans, distribute fertilizer, and cover everything impartially.

The potato planter picks up the potato and looks it over, or seems to cut it into halves, quarters or any number of parts, separates the eyes, and removes the seed ends. It plants whole potatoes or parts of them as near together or as far apart as the judgment of the man on the driving seat suggests. Having dropped the seed, it covers it, fertilizes it, tucks it in like a youngster put to bed, and measures off the next row with mathematical accuracy.

Certain vegetables, notably tomatoes, cabbages, cauliflower, celery, lettuce, and some others, need to be started in cold frames and transplanted for the practical business of growing. For this purpose there is a plant setting machine that will handle a sprout with an almost loving care, establish it in its new environment, gather the earth tenderly about its roots, and give it a copious drink of water from a tank it carries. It will cover from four to six acres a day.

The various operations generally known as "cultivating" were once the bane of the farmer's existence. Now he has a machine for each operation of crop tending, with a driver's seat as comfortable as that of a motor car. The machines seem to know a weed from a crop plant, and while they will snatch the weed out by the roots they pass the plant unharmed, provided, of course, it is growing in its proper place.

When the crop is ready for gathering, American mechanism is at its best. The perfection of the modern reaper and binder needs no comment.

Life's a Circle.

"Bronson has gone to Europe for his health."

"How did he lose his health?"

"Earning the money to go to Europe."

Good seed, good cultivation, good common sense are a pretty good combination. If good crops are desired.

Spanish Onion Soup

Spanish Onion Soup—Chop nine five onions and fry brown in butter, adding a teaspoonful of sugar. When brown pour over eight cupfuls of hot beef stock. Add a bay leaf, half a dozen peppercorns, and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Simmer fifteen minutes, strain, and serve with dice of fried or toasted bread.

Meat Balls

Chop finely one pound of beef from the round, 1 1-2 pounds of pork steak and half an onion. Add one beaten egg, season highly with pepper and salt, form into flat balls and fry on both sides until brown.

German Mustard

One heaping tablespoon mustard, 2 heaping tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 5 tablespoons vinegar and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Beat all together and cook until smooth in a double boiler or dish set in water.

Stewed Beefsteak.

Take a thick slice of round of beef spread out in a pan, cover with a pint or more of canned or chopped fresh tomatoes, plenty of salt and pepper. Cover and cook in a slow oven for two hours or until the meat is very tender.

Creamed Calf Brains

This dish is especially good. Parboil calves' brains, chop fine, mix with one cupful of cold cooked peas seasoned. Make a sauce of one cupful of sweet milk, one-half cupful of cream, one level teaspoonful each of salt and pepper. Add the peas and calves' brains. Heat an hour over slices of crisp toast.

Rhubarb Cream

Cut tender rhubarb in inch lengths without peeling. Cook in a double boiler without adding any water. Pass through a sieve. To each teaspoonful of pulp add one-half cup of sugar. Set on ice and when very cold stir in a cupful of thick whipped cream. Serve in sherbet cups as cold as possible.

Cherry Salad.

Wash and stone one pint of large cherries. Be careful to bruise the fruit as little as possible. Place in each cherry a hazel nut kernel to preserve the form; chill, arrange in little heart leaves of lettuce and pour over a cream mayonnaise.

Baked Bananas

Slice in half lengthwise five perfect bananas from firm skin. Bake for ten minutes. Remove to a hot plate and pour over them one cupful of sweetened pineapple juice.

SPAIN'S WEALTHY FAMILIES GO TO OTHER COUNTRIES

Political Conditions Have Brought About Serious Conditions.

MADRID, via Hendaye—(Spl.)—Alarm concerning Spain's political future has reached a point where, after transferring as much of their investments as possible abroad, the wealthier class of people are getting out of the country as fast as they can. In the larger cities, like Madrid, Barcelona and Seville, hardly any are left of the so-called "best people" and the effect of their disappearance is being severely felt in business circles.

The reactionary military and clerical elements are in full control of the government at present and, as the Republicans had expected in the event that the reactionaries came in to power, the repressive measures they are adopting are driving the people wild with rage. The radical groups are, in fact, rapidly organizing for an open attack on the monarchy.

Indeed, Pablo Iglesias plainly told the Cortes April 7 what to expect, in the speech in which he said that unless the Ferrer case was reopened and justice done, the masses would carry on the struggle with arms in their hands and their chests bare."

Though the commissioned army officers are reactionaries, the rank and file are almost wholly anti-monarchist.

When Old Friends Stood in His Way

THE young man, who was particularly well dressed and eminent in business like and brisk in manner fumbled in his pocket as he felt the touch on his shoulder, without looking up from the typewritten letters that he was reading.

"I don't want your ticket," said the pleasant faced young fellow who had just entered the care. "Keep it for the conductor, Willie."

Willie's rather hard-bitten face relaxed to a smile that was almost comical. "Good old Jim!" he exclaimed. "Aren't you lost? Sit down, won't you?"

"Since you are so pressing I believe I will," said the pleasant faced young man, cheerily. "I generally find it more comfortable than standing up, anyway. How's the boy? You're looking like a certificate of deposit, Willie."

"I can't kick," replied the business-like young man. "I haven't done so rotten bad in the last two years. I'm assistant in the department now and I'll be buying in six months. Glad to see you, Jim."

The pleasant-faced young man removed his hat. "Excuse me for keeping it on," he said, humbly. Then, addressing the Pinkie lamps, "And he still calls me 'Jim'! Did you mean for me to sit down beside you, sh?"

"Don't be a chump," said the business-like young man. "What's the good word with you?"

"Plugging," said the other. "Just plugging along. But I expect they're going to make me a justice of the Supreme court in about 60 years. I don't suppose you ever see any of the people that used to be at the old job?"

Willie looked a little confused. "I'm still there," he said. "They're reasonable," he went on in explanation. "I don't see any need of spending more than I have to because I'm making more than I used to. Of course it pays a man to dress well. That's business, but I still have the same old room."

The pleasant faced young man digested this information. "I guess, too, that you hate to leave old friends," he smiled. "Well, I'm glad your head isn't swelled. Give my love to Mother Jones and tell her that I said so."

"Friends, my foot!" the business like young man snarled. "I haven't got a friend in the house. I'm not keen about having 'em either."

"Old crowd all left, I suppose?" hazarded the pleasant faced young man.

"No, They're most of them there. Old man Tooley, Dave Price, Ritchie, Mrs. Hanberg and Mrs. Spencer and the fair Julia. Molly's still waiting on table."

"Miss Ruth gone away?"

The business like young man looked embarrassed for the second time. She's still there," he answered shortly.

"You and Dave were always quite chummy," suggested the pleasant faced young man.

"I know," said the other. "The trouble with Dave is that he's always hard up. Want's to borrow money, and I'm no state loan institution. I told him so once, and he's had a grudge against me ever since."

"Of course," he went on as his companion was silent. "Of course I used to borrow of Dave, once in a while, in the old days, but then it was mutual. He'd come to me, one week, and I'd go to him another week. Now it's all one way. I've got money and he hasn't. I earned my money and saved it, too. But when a fellow gets a little ahead everybody's after him with their hands out. Mrs. Spencer got sore because I got tired of giving up for her church doing."

"I see," remarked the pleasant faced young man, thoughtfully. "I always thought that they were a jolly, kind sort of a lot, but I guess I was mistaken. But I'll bet Mother Jones hasn't changed."

"She wanted to raise the price of board on me, but I wouldn't stand for it," said the business like young man. "It isn't my fault if the cost of living is higher than it used to be. I suppose her profits less, that's all. It's likely to be the same in any business."

"I told her she could have my room if she wanted it, but I guess she didn't want it very bad. She knew I'd got a little raise or two and she thought she'd come in on it. Molly, too, she seems to think I ought to come across with a tip about every so often. The fact of the matter is that as soon as a man begins to be a little successful people get envious and if they can't work you they're down on you."

"Miss Ruth down on you?"

"No, she's not down on me, but—well, we're not the same as we used to be. She got some notions in her head that— You'd think that a girl who had worked in an office for five years would have some ideas of what was business and what wasn't. Wouldn't you? She hasn't."

"As I was saying, a fellow, when he's getting on, has got to get along by himself. The boys in the department would every one of them be glad if I was fired tomorrow. Old Ballard hates me, because he's afraid I'm going to get his job. And I am, too. He's a back number."

"Well, here's my station, Willie," said the pleasant-faced young man rising. "But I thought old Ballard did you a good turn when he took you on."

"Did himself a good turn."

"Good-bye," said the pleasant-faced young man. I needn't tell you to take care of yourself. I know you will, and I'm glad you've been so successful. So long!"

PAPER READ BY MRS. BERTHA THOMAS AT S. S. CONVENTION

The following paper was read by Mrs. Bertha Thomas, Sunday, before the Sunday School convention held at the Dunkard Church in Clinton township:

What must the Christian do to help the Church and the Sunday school the most? Just merely attend Sunday school and church every Sunday, or every other Sunday and think we have done our duty. No, we must have our minds and hearts constantly with our work. A man cannot think of two great things at the same time and make each a success. The thing of greatest interest will occupy first place in our minds and this will succeed. The business man succeeds because his business has first place. He is constantly thinking, planning, doing something to help his business. He is alive to all his interests. He watches his competitors.

Satan is the competitor of the Christian. He is not worried when a man is entirely absorbed in temporal affairs. The business of the enemy prospers when souls are being lost. Satan need not bother about a saloon, except when there is opposition by the Christian or some body man, or saintly mother. He need not bother about the gambling den until it is interfered with by God's people.

It is an easy thing to be lost—nothing. Satan is not afraid of a sleeping Christian. He does not often visit a sleeping or a dead church. He already has control. None of his business will be interfered with by it. If he can stir up factions, or jealousy, or quarreling in the church, again he has no enemy to his business. He has a strong helper—one of the best.

The church must be both aggressive and defensive. She must destroy the business of the enemy to increase her own. To do this she must think, plan, pray, unite her forces, do, and do with all her might. For the power of the church lies within, the hands of her individual members.

We must give friendly invitations to our young girls and boys. They will later have control of our government and homes, our future prosperity, peace, and religion depend on the way they are taught to live as men and women. Therefore, we must not neglect them, we must make church and Sunday school an interesting place to them, for Satan has already many places to tempt them away and young people are inclined to go where there is most for them to enjoy. We must make them know we love them and are interested in their welfare.

You say, best of all is the working Christian. Everybody knows him by his life. You ask him why he is so busy about his father's business, he replies quickly, "First, because souls are lost; neither fools nor philosophers can smother the fires of hell; secondly, because souls can be saved and must be saved now. As they die, so will they spend eternity."

The working Christian works constantly, not only during revival time, but all the year. Conviction, deep and abiding keeps him ever young in his work. When all seems quiet he often does the most. He does not always make the most noise. He has put himself in God's hands. The Spirit directs him and he goes where it leads. Sometimes the evangelist has great success bringing souls into the church during revival, and receives much credit for it but at the same time the work of the Christians in their Sunday school has been preparing the field all the year.

One of the great things the Christians must possess is patience. Let us consider how patient we are toward little children, how we put up with their whines and whims; we should also as parents, be patient with them as God's children and teach and encourage them in the Sunday School and church. We must also have patience with each other in our work; because, united with patience, godliness and love we stand; divided with selfishness and tolerance of evil, we fall. Another thing we need is faith, but faith will not save any one alone; we must have willingness we must be willing to sacrifice time, talent, money, etc. Lives of faith and willingness are in demand everywhere, because "the harvest is great and the laborers are few."

Jesus was willing to sacrifice all for us. He became poor that we through him, might become rich. Not what the world counts riches, but rich in faith and good works. We all have an influence; we may say, "Well I'll live a quiet, peaceable life, and really do not think I have but very little influence on other people's lives; but our influence goes out just the same. When we stay away from church or Sunday school without a reasonable excuse we should think of our influence. When we take the name of God in vain, or step into a forbidden place we have an influence on some one. Also our kind actions have their influences. Note the influence of a mother's prayer, a father's kind words. It is not what we do that looks greatest to the world, that always bears the greatest influence. When the Saviour was here he did not seek the society of the rich, learned, and great, but labored among the poor and and lowly. We can have an influence on the sinners by showing them we have sympathy for them. For human sympathy acts upon life, as does a refreshing rain on withering flowers; and they must be helped for sin is death. You see a patient in the first stages of typhoid fever. The cheek is somewhat hot, preceded by a slight chill. "Why?" You say, "Typhoid fever does not seem to be much of a disease." But wait until the patient has been six weeks under it and all his energies have been wrung out; he is too weak to lift his little finger, and his intellect gone, then you see the full effect of the disease. Now sin in the world is an ailment, which is only in its first stages, but let it get under full sway and it is an all-consuming typhoid. When we begin life we begin it as a freshman in the class of gold or evil; we then pass into the sophomore, and then into the junior, and then into the senior, and from that we graduate angels or devils.

We must keep the country church the place of interest to the young people, for they will always hunt the largest crowds and the most amusement; therefore they are liable to leave their home church and go to the city. The country gives to its church a quiet place, where its congregation can meet in peace and silence. It hardly seems like worship when you scarcely hear the prayer or the preaching for the busy din of Sunday traffic. The country church is the center of the community and around it all the social interests cluster; all meet at one place, the church, and there is to be had the best of social intercourse. All know every one present and all speak to everybody, and the best of social speaking and feeling exists. This sociability is not possible in the city. In the country the young are farther away from temptations than in the city. Then we, as Christians, working together, must do all in our power to make our country churches better and help to be an ideal church.

There are so many ways and places for the Christian to work; he certainly has a wide, wide field of labor, and many times very hard tasks are before him; but shielded by the shield of faith he must take heart and do his duty.

"Let me do my work from day to day.

In field or forest, at the desk or loom.

In roaring market place or tranquil room;

Let me find it in my heart to say,

When vagrant wishes beckon me astray:

This is my work; my blessing; not my doom.

Of all who live, I am the only one by whom

This work can best be done.

With our hearts and thoughts and with our work we will succeed.

There are thoughts that inspire lofty action, that put iron into the will, that expand the heart and the mind. Our lives are going to be largely determined by our choice from all these thoughts. Every good thought we think lifts us up into the world. Yet the life will rise no higher than the character of the thoughts we think.

Let a man begin to face himself each day a few good vigorous thoughts, and by and by the mind will naturally run to wholesome themes. It is a religious duty to invite the best thoughts.

"When you hear of good in people—tell it.

When you hear a tale of evil—quell it."

Let the good news have the light. Put the evil out of sight.

Make the world we live in bright. Like to heaven above."

THE OWL DRUG CO.

Couney Clerk John Patty received a check Monday for $6,404.16 from the Indiana Union Traction Company in full payment of the judgment, interest and costs in the case of William Scribner, administrator of the estate of Lora Whitson, against the company. In the summer of 1906 the steamer White City at Broad Ripple sank with a crowd of excursionists and Lora Whitson, a Putnam county man, was drowned. The suit for damages was begun in Marion county and was venued to this city, where it was tried and the administrator of Whitson's estate was given a verdict for $5,000. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court and the ruling of the lower court was affirmed.—Noblesville Ledger. S. A. Hays of this city was one of the attorneys for the Whitson estate.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cross, of Brazils spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maxwell.

Mrs. Walter Linacott and children who have been here visiting the former's mother Mrs. Edwards, left Monday afternoon for their home in Mobile, Ala.

Mrs. Lillie Allen, of Indianapolis, was here today.

The students of the DePauw summer school will be the guests of the faculty members of the summer school at a lawn party, at Rosa Bower, Thursday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Hawkins are at Ft. Benjamin Harrison attending the State Militia encampment. They will be gone until a week from tomorrow.

Kill More Than Wild Beasts. The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malaria and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c at the Owl Drug store.

EMERGENCY FORAGE CROPS.

United States Department of Agriculture Issues Bulletin on Crops That May Be Planted For Pasture.

Reports from many portions of the Central West indicate that the droughts of spring and early summer have greatly reduced the hay crop throughout the entire section, and that in many localities the pastures are already completely dried up. Oats, too, in some sections, are only half a crop. This situation calls for prompt recognition by farmers and the immediate planting of emergency crops to round out the shortage of both hay and pasture. There is still time between now and mid-July to plant a half dozen kinds of quick-growing crops that may be used as substitutes for the regular hay and pasture crops if the seed is secured and the land at once put into condition.

For hay there may be planted millet, cowpeas, sorghum, soy beans and Canada field peas and barley. These same crops are suitable for pasture purposes, and, in addition, rape, rye and winter varieties of wheat. The whole corn plant may also be used. For grain, buckwheat, millet, and cow-peas are available, and, in the southern part of the region, early varieties of soy beans.

The aim of this pamphlet is to state briefly enough essential facts relative to each of these crops to enable intelligent selection, giving reference to more complete bulletins on the subject, which may be secured later. The vital point now is the recognition of the situation and the prompt planting with least possible delay of some crop that will supplement the pastures as quickly as possible and fill empty barns with hay for winter.—Bulletin from United States Department of Agriculture.

Using Nature's Means

That Nature is the sure and safe physician has been abundantly proven. Her resources, when aided and wisely directed by Nature doctors are unbounded and accomplish cures hitherto unknown.

Little will you wonder at the confidence reposed in the Spaulnurst Osteopaths when you know of their praiseworthy work and how Osteopathy successfully treats all conditions of ill-health attempted by medical methods, and many so-called surgical or incurable cases they have abandoned.

All those who have given their treatment a fair trial regard it the best investment of their life and will verify these statements. Ask them.

Think it over—repair while there is time. Yes, you too, may be lined up and permanently cured at 301 South Vine Street. It may not be too late. Phone 226, day or night. No charge for examination.
